

To: Lane, Jennifer[Lane.Jennifer@epa.gov]
From: Forrest, Sabrina
Sent: Tue 8/11/2015 4:26:43 PM
Subject: Re: root cause - did you see this article?

I can't, but would it be okay for you to contact Jonathan Thompson? He likely knows the opinion leaders. The Washington Post article was also a fairer representation and could have ties to others. Since I got the Washington Post article from a Sierra Club person in Pueblo, perhaps Sierra Club folks in Dgo.???

From: Lane, Jennifer
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 10:20 AM
To: Forrest, Sabrina
Subject: RE: root cause - did you see this article?

Great, I am copying you on a suggestion to our press folks to refer him to national media. Can you think of any locally-based (Silverton, Durango) opinion leaders who share his perspective? Need to hear from these folks on a national level!

Jennifer H. Lane

Public Affairs Specialist

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Region 8

1595 Wynkoop Street, 8OC

Denver, CO 80202

303-312-6813

From: Forrest, Sabrina
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 10:19 AM
To: Lane, Jennifer
Subject: Re: root cause - did you see this article?

I did. I tend to like that author's articles. He knows the area issues pretty well.

From: Lane, Jennifer
Sent: Tuesday, August 11, 2015 9:54 AM
To: Forrest, Sabrina
Subject: root cause - did you see this article?

<http://www.hcn.org/articles/when-our-river-turned-orange-animas-river-spill>

Sabrina, this appears to be one of the best articles so far based on my knowledge. Do you agree? I am recommending that our media officers try to get national media to talk with this author. Can you think of anyone from Silverton or Durango who would share this perspective but who is credible/ respected that we could try to get to talk?

Jennifer H. Lane

Public Affairs Specialist

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Region 8

1595 Wynkoop Street, 8OC

Denver, CO 80202

303-312-6813